ABSTRACT

A system, method and article of manufacture are provided for monitoring information in a knowledgebase framework. Utilizing a network, information is received from a user that relates to a target to be tracked. The network is monitored for changes to the target. When a change is monitored, data relating to the monitored changes is retrieved and then transmitted to the user utilizing the network.